

HULL PARTNERSHIPS AND STRATEGY MAPPING

Many citywide strategies and partnerships contribute to improving our collective health and wellbeing. The following pages illustrate the breadth and scope of the issues to be addressed, the partnerships involved and the strategies in existence or in development, grouped for illustrative purposes under the 3 priority themes of the Joint Health and Wellbeing Strategy (JHWS).

It is acknowledged that many groups and strategies could be badged as being relevant to JHWS Priority 1 and/or 2 - Proactive Prevention and Health Inequalities - but that their inclusion is more important than precise positioning.

This is intended to show a 'snapshot in time' that can be updated and amended as groups and strategies develop, evolve or change, particularly as new integrated health and care structures become fully established.

Below is a key to explain the colours that have been used in the mapping exercise:

What influences health?

To appreciate the breadth of the issues and strategies that can impact on our health and wellbeing, we must understand that good health and positive lifestyle behaviours are shaped by the circumstances in which we are born, grow, live, work and age - the 'social determinants of health'.

These include factors such as: the environment and our surroundings; our education and skills, the type of housing we live in, the food we eat, access to money and resources, transport; positive relationships with family, friends and communities, and good quality work

A healthy place is somewhere that understands how health is shaped by these social, cultural, political, economic, commercial and environmental factors, and takes determined action on improving these for current and future generations.
